Not all of the times of your life will be worth remembering. Face it: a lot of time goes into the normal occupations of just going on with life: waking up, showering, making that cup of much-needed coffee; going to class, studying for that stupid exam, seeing the required speaker for your English professor. The times that really live on in our memories, however, are the times that never really meant that much in a formal sense: The first college party. The realization that quarters are a gift from the laundry god. The college date. The homecoming game where you tried to hide your drunk friends from your parents. The homecoming game where you tried to hide your drunk self from your parents. The downtown adventure; the breathless escapes from BUPD, the formal dances, the visiting entertainers, grilling out with your friends, or just sitting down and having a long talk with someone you just met. These things are the moments that make college worth something; regardless of the knowledge (which, really, you could learn anywhere, with enough effort) you learned, and the time you spent cramming, it is the personal experience that made it all worthwhile. And so while this time is yet another mass production of just another University... we have tried to capture what it has been to live in the few short months of August 1998 to May 1999, here in the hidden heart of the city of Indianapolis, here in that place which we have come to call 'home'... Butler University. These are the lives of the men and women that lived, laughed, loved and learned, and to them it is dedicated.

Across Campus

Portraits caught in time of the people and places we knew.

Serene pond
The serene pond of Holcomb Gardens glistens of snow and ice from a winter's freeze as it blurs the reflections of its tranquil surroundings.

Heading to class
Junior Jeremy Enyart heads through the book store towards Jordan Hall for classes. During spring, the book store expansion closed off its north exit.

"I love Butler because it's a small school in a big city. You get the best of both worlds."
-- Laurie Bowman

"What I like most about Butler is the size. The fact that I can put a face to names makes the school feel like a more personable place. Being so far from home and seeing a smiling face of a stranger makes me happy."
-- Elizabeth Miyashiro

"Butler has a beutiful campus and I love the atmosphere. It is the perfect size for me, not to small, but not to big. The only problem I see with Butler is that I may have had too good of a time."
-- Chris Broshears

"I love Derby Days because whether you are at the cook-out, volleyball tournament, queen contest, or the party you are bound to have a good time."
-- Allison Lightner

Gettin' Jiggy with Geoffrey
Brooke Shinnamon and Malachi Gillihan listen to President Bannister during his turn at the board game "Catch Phrase" in the C-Club dining area.

Not Niagara
The mini-waterfalls in front of Gallahue & what used to be known as the Holcomb Building (now CBA -- R.I.P. Mr. Holcomb) add a certain beauty to our campus.

Watch Out!
At the Lambda Chi Alpha Watermelon Bust, be ready to get wet and sticky from hundreds of watermelons.

Twistin'...
Butler student Janai Downs takes her partner out for a spin.

...and Turnin'
Marissa Ranos and her dance partner put down the funk.

"It was just a blast!" exclaimed Vanessa Stowers after the event. Her partner, Tanner Hronek, and she danced the night away at the SGA-sponsored event.

...and the Band played On
Who could swing dance without the right music? The local band 'Jumpin' Jive' played for the crowded Reilly Room guests.

Stepping
"Stepping originated from African culture and is predominantly used by African-American fraternities and sororities. We practiced for weeks to show Butler what 'stepping' is about. We enjoyed it!" (l-r) Sheronn Burrow, Angela Allen, Delia Askew, Kendra Vinson.

The Funny man
Comedian Jamique pertorms for Butler students in the Reilly Room. REACH members originally saw his act at the National Association of Campus Acitvities.

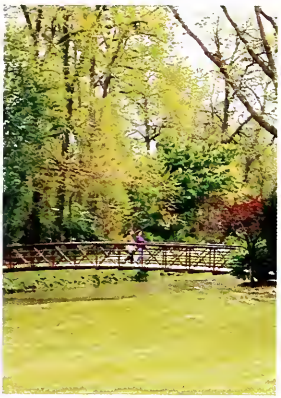
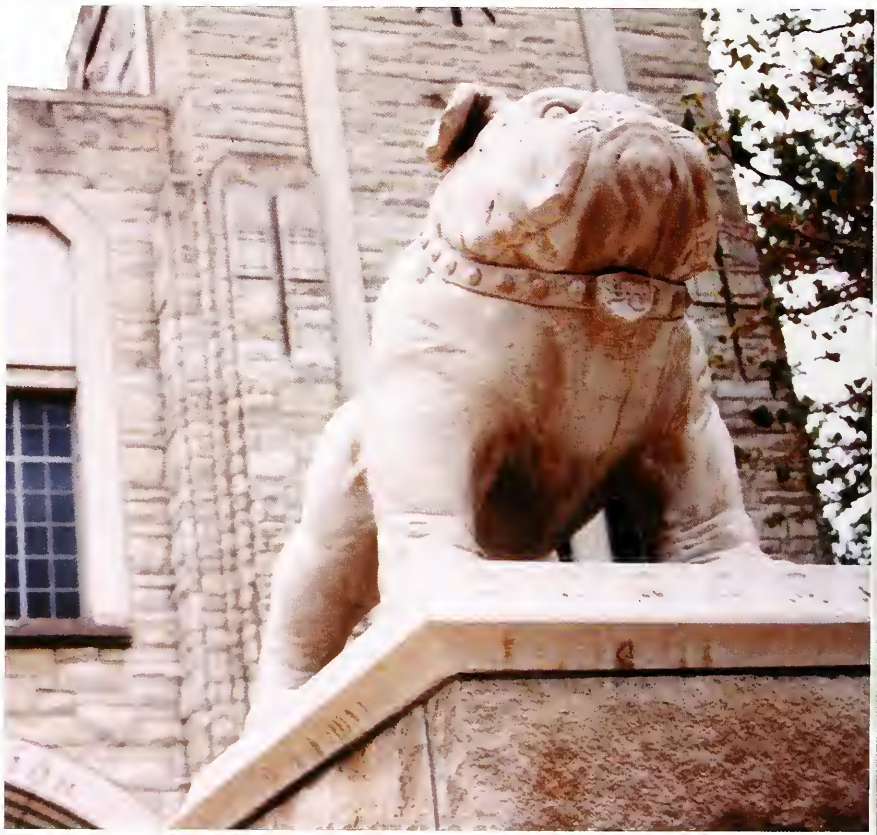
The Holcomb Observatory rests in the background as two students relax on the Star Fountain, located in the mall.

Those driving to Butler from 46th St. can see Jordan, Holcomb, & Gallahue, as well as this fountain.



Crossing the bridge
Two local walkers cross a bridge, leaving the canal walkway and entering the Holcomb Gardens.



The Bulldog
The stone bulldog guards Atherton Union by day and night. The bulldog was a gift of the Butler class of 1996.

The Amercian Flag flies high behind the fountains near Lilly Hall.

Friendly and colorful flowers greet visitors at the gates of Holcomb Gardens.

The fountain in Holcomb Pond mists the Bell Tower atmosphere in Holcomb Gardens on an overcast Fall day.

Scenic Reflection
Behind Robertson Hall is the newly added glass window & stone patio. With this added beauty, we see Butler students' tuition money hard at work.

The Alpha Phi-em Bots seduce the crowd with their high 'cal-i-ber' (it's a homonym).

The End! Theta Eva Hecimovic jumps into the arms of Sigma Chi Dan Alessandrini as they finish their Geneva Stunts skit.

"You're breaking my back" screams Mandy Blackmon to Phi Psi Josh Abel during Geneva Stunts. The Phi Psis were paired up with Schwitzer and Resco.

These guys are beautiful!
Male students pose as female beauty contestants after being hypnotized by Dr. Wand. Like other Contemporary Entertainment events, the night was full of laughs and a great success!

Mandy Blackmon twirls the night away at the Suitcase Dance sponsored by the Junior Class. "I think the Suitcase Dance is a great idea and it is sad that more people don't take advantage of the awesome opportunity" said Blackmon.

"Good one Shaggy!"
Butler students give Scooby two Scooby Snacks in order to obtain a photo with him during SGA's & Program Board's King's Island trip.

"Baby, you're looking good tonight" says Junior Chad Martin to the microphone as he attempts to make-out with it on the Reilly Room stage. Program Board brought in a professional hypnotist to put students in a trance (including Chad).

On the rocks
Senior Sam Strohl hikes uninhabited territory near the ocean in Cancun, Mexico. SGA sponsored the spring break trip to Cancun.

Student Government Association

Elected through a process of petition, campaign, and student votes, SGA works with a budget of over $250,000 to provide entertainment, cultural diversity, and funding for campus groups and students in general.

Program Board

Working as a branch of SGA, Program Board plans events such as sky-diving excursions, Spring Weekend, and on-campus speakers and entertainers.

Playing cards
Students take a break from dancing and play cards at the Suitcase Dance held in the West Gym.

Gestic Theatre
Actors from the travelling group Gestic Theatre act out a scene dealing with homosexual orientation. The group ran a program with skits and discussions concerning diversity issues for a group of students in Jordan Hall 141. The event was sponsored by SGA.

Strike!!! Latisha Kates makes sure everyone around knows of her great bowling skills during a Cosmic Bowling night out.

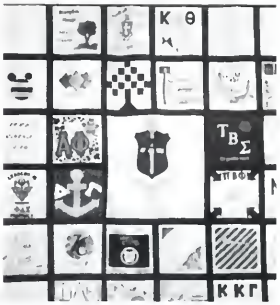
Emcees of the evening
Juniors Clay Lawson and Kelly Schneider emcee the Mr. Butler Competition held in the Reilly Room.

Meeting Time
Cara Koch, Ann Hrivnack, Rosanne Cook, Kim Sterling, Brooke Benedette & Marcy Hill prepare for their bi-weekly Campus Information Center meeting. Schedules were re-arranged at each meeting to fit the student workers' busy lives.

Unity Quilt
The 1998 Unity Quilt turned out wonderful thanks to all of the participating organizations. The purpose of the Unity Quilt is to show the unity (hence the name of the quilt) between all campus organizations.



Convenience
Alex Lee works hard at the campus convenience store during the first semester. Second semester Aramark performed a mutiny and took over the store.

Alternate Entrances?
Ouch! How can I excuse that inconvenience? And do they really need to make such a private ordeal so public?

Volunteer Services

Sharing the holiday spirit
5 members of the Volunteer Center ring bells downtown on Monument Circle to support the Salvation Army. During the holidays, the Volunteer Center offers opportunities to serve the community.

Meal Time

Fall Alternative Break

From October 14-18, Butler University students travelled to Pipestem National Park in Pipestem, West Virginia to volunteer their time and efforts to the less fortunate. The days were long, but they enjoyed themselves and the environment that surrounded them at the same time.

"This water is cold!" says Junior Frank Jackson while crossing a river in Pipestem, West Virginia.

Gorgeous West Virginia
The mountains of West Virginia provide the background to a Kodak moment of a few waterfalls.

Enjoying the scenery

Aboard the Titanic
Commuter Josh Masariu is lifted to resemble the movie Titanic during the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash.

Commuters

Although commuters live off-campus, they still make a difference on campus.
Commuters are more independent; they do not rely on Aramark for food or someone else to clean their house, they rely on themselves. On this page are photos that capture some commuters in action and some of the problems they face on campus.

Green gold for Butler
Although there is room for a car to park, there is no asphalt to house that car during the day. BUPD prides itself in giving parking tickets to those cars who must park on campus to go to class or their homes, but do not have a parking spot to park in. With the numerous parking tickets seen on windshields every day, let's hope that Butler spends this money on new parking spaces (that may just be too logical, though).

Parking Alternatives
Two students who paid $10 each for their Butler parking permits find themselves parking on a private basketball court on campus to avoid paying $25 for a ticket.

Anchors away
Commuter Chad Stroud becomes an anchor to impress the judges of Anchor Splash.

Back Flip
Commuter Josh Masariu performs a backflip with the assisstance of fellow commuters during the 1998 Anchor Splash.

Parking Chaos
With increasing enrollment, parking spaces become scarce throughout the days at Butler. Current and future expansion of campus buildings may be leading Butler into a parking disaster. Butler must begin searching for a solution to the campus parking problem and soon!

"I love photos!" says Commuter Laura Hacker as she makes a visit to the Alpha Phi house.

Commuter Bannister
Well, he does commute doesn't he?

Cup Ban
Men of Ross Hall head to a meeting in their business attire discussing the campus banning of athletic cups.

The Ladies of Spring Sports
Okay, so maybe they don't live in Ross, but surely they visited once or twice.

The Girls

The Founding of Sigma Gamma Rho

In the 1920's Sigma Gamma Rho Inc. was not only lacking in an actual Greek house, but in dorm space. Back then, blacks were not allowed to live in the dorms. However, despite the racist views of the time, seven young women, who were attending Butler University while working on their Masters' degrees, founded Sigma Gamma Rho. Their sorority became incorporated on November 12, 1922.

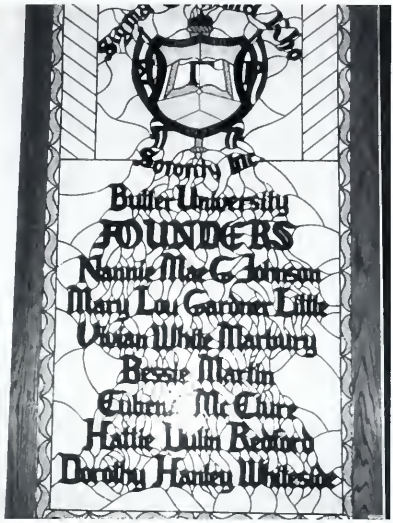
Mary Lou Little, Nan Johnson, Dorothy Whiteside, Hattie Redford, Cubena McClure, Bessie Martin, and Vivian Marbury were seven best friends with a unique goal of founding their very own sorority. The ideals of this sorority would be sisterhood, scholarship, and service. Vivian Marbury, who practiced those three ideals in 1922, is still living today and resides in Indianapolis.

In 1999, Sigma Gamma Rho Inc. has 10 members on Butler's campus. All are African American, however Sigma Gamma Rho does accept members of all races. Current members are as listed: Delia Askew - Basileus (President); Nicole Thompson - Anti-Basileus (Vice President); Angela Allen - Anti- Grammateus (Secretary); Tanika Scott - Tamiochus (Tresurer); Allison Pulliam - Epistoleus (Historian); Kendra Vinson - Parlia- mentarian; Kim Stephenson - Member; Sylvia Johnson - Member; Veronica Newman - Member ; Sheronn Bur- row - Member.

Sigma Gamma Rho has participated in many all campus events. They have also organized a few themselves. Two things of particular interest that the Sigma Gamma Rho girls have done is make a time capsule and celebrate George Washington Carver Day.

The reason for holding a celebration with George Washington Carver Day is because he helped Sigma Gamma Rho start their sorority back in 1922. The time capsule was put in the Irwin Library Archives on the 75th anniversary of their Founder's Day. It was full of photographs and other momentos, which will be opened on the 100th anniversary.

Another Sigma Gamma Rho contribution to the university includes the stained glass window outside of the Tower Conference Room in Atherton Union. There is also a stone walkway with college names of many Sigma Gamma Rho chapters by the east side of the Union.



The Stained Glass Memory
This stained-glass window was installed in the Atherton Union several years ago as a dedication to the women who began ΣΓΡ.

Sigma Gamma Rho's national philanthropy is the March of Dimes. This spring the members sold cardboard baby shoes which were hung on a bulletin board in Jordan Hall. They also had a fund-raiser called Operation Big Book Bag. For this project the girls collected school supplies for kids. In return, Butler students got to attend an ice cream cake social.

President Delia Askew, said that "being the Alpha chapter pushes me to encourage everyone else to stay involved with service and scholarship. We have to represent! Since we are the Alpha chapter more is expected. We are always trying to get a lot of people from campus involved with our programs."

Some of these activities include Pokeno night, movie nights, Spring Sports, Greek Olympics, and step shows at the REACH Ethnic Festival. The Alpha chapter has also had many programming events that have earned the title "first annual." For example they have held the Mr. Sigma Gamma Rho contest, and their first scholarship ball, which is called the Blue and Gold Ball.

Many of our girls are Resident Assistants or in Hall Government. Sigma Gamma Rho's are also involved in CPA, SGA, Program Board, and REACH. However Askew said "We are not just involved in the sorority, we are involved all over the community. The women of Sigma Gamma Rho have participated in programs such as Girls Inc. after school program and Golden Achievement Program which was started by Sheronn Burrow.

Kim Stephenson said, "Sisterhood, scholarship, and service is what we're all about. We step together. We take road trips together. We have a lot of fun together. But we're more than just a social sorority. We were founded on community service. Greater service, greater progress!"

Although fashionably unattractive, Pharmacy students endure through even more agony as they are forced to wear paper blue aprons and big white chef hats to keep nasty viruses away. These two combined, are commonly known as: scrubs. We don't want no scrubs.

Where does all of our tuition money go? Pharmacy students often ask this question while fighting to stay in the Pharmacy school. Well, pretty glass windows do not pay for themselves (CBA students would accept this as fact as they have extremely pretty windows in their new building).

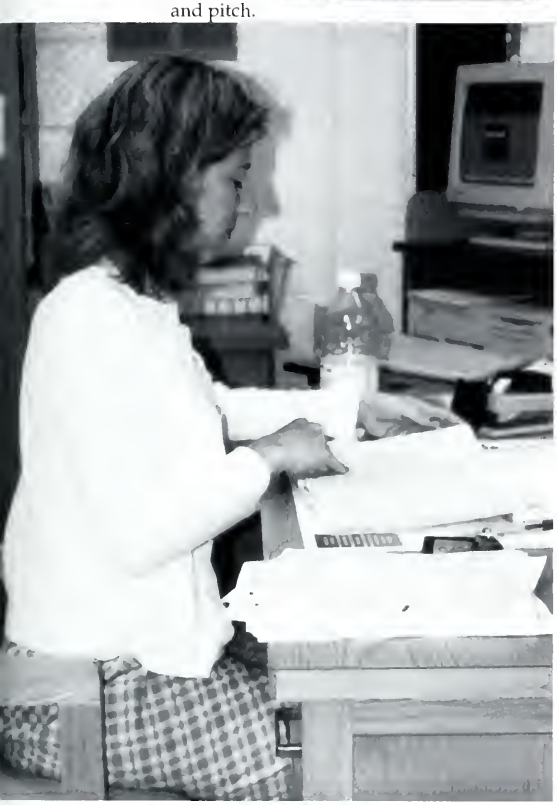
Life After College

(from top) Ms. Martin arrives at work at 7:45 after getting up at 6:00; Sitting at a desk working out an efficient schedule for the day; One of the students (a fifth-grader in this instance) practices on his recorder; Ms. Martin uses techniques that engage the interest of the younger students, teaching such basic concepts as rhythm and pitch.



The average college student is very aware of the fact that the world of college is not the world outside; days of drinking, sleeping in, and choosing one's schedule at whim gives way to waking early, watching time with an eagle eye, and juggling a social life with a professional one. The DRIFT staff chose to examine this alleged "real world" by following those that inhabit it; the Butler alum chosen was Polly Martin.

Polly is a Butler graduate of just a year past. With the days of college behind, she has chosen to excercise her skills in music education at a 'small-town' elementary school, South Elementary of South Madison Community School Corp. This close-feeling school, however, hosts over 1,000 children; 'Ms. Martin', as the children call her, teaches 500 of them once over the course of every three days.

Though the days are very different from those that college brought, Polly has no regrets about moving on. "I get a lot of satisfaction in seeing the kids progress with their accomplishments."

Spring Break

Spring Break 1999 was no different than spring breaks from year's past. The destinations were the same, but still the time and money was well spent. The most important aspect of Spring Break is the time to get away from the daily stress of Butler and the world around us. A time to relax in the sun or in the shade or a time to assist those in need. A time to live one's life worry-free and indulge in the amazing wonders of the world.

Love & Relationships @ Butler

Couple: Jeff Micek & Kristi O'Brien
First date: I went to the movies to see Aladdin with 10 girls and Jeff. It was in January and he wore shorts and brought a New Kids on the Block pillowcase, just to prove that he had it.
Nicest thing he has ever done: He planned a Sweet Sixteen Birthday party for me.
Nicest thing she has ever done: When I had surgery she stayed and helped my mom take care of me all day, everyday, until I got better.
His most attractive feature: I love his beautiful green eyes.
Her most attractive feature: Her hair, it was the first thing I ever noticed about her.
Most annoying part of relationship: It's probably when I don't understand what she is thinking, where she is coming from, or what made her upset.
Most romantic thing he has ever done: He pinned me.
Most romantic thing she has ever done: For highschool graduation, Kristy made me a scrap book about my entire high school career.

Couple: Chelsey Cindric & Bob Link
First date: "We went to dinner at Union Jacks. I felt nervous and excited." - Chelsey
Nicest thing he has ever done: He gave me flowers for no special reason.
Nicest thing she has ever done: She bought me dinner after I finished my internship.
His most attractive feature: I love his smile and his laugh.
Her most attractive feature: It's her curly hair... yep definitely her hair.
Most annoying part of relationship: Chelsey is a pharmacy major so it is hard to find extra time to spend together doing fun things.
Most romantic thing he has ever done: He took me to Benihana's on Valentine's Day.
Most romantic thing she has ever done: She made me cookies and didn't burn them.

Couple: Jason Leet & Amanda Weiss
First date: We ate dinner at the Aristocrat and talked about our study abroad experiences. We were both excited because we had been friends since our freshman year.
Nicest thing he has ever done: He's always nice, but the nicest thing about Jason is that he is a good listener.
Nicest thing about her: She's always laughing and happy and that makes me laugh.
Most annoying part of relationship: We are both so busy. The worst part was when Jason was taking the Becker Preparation Class for the CPA Exam.
Most romantic thing they have done together: We wen walking along the canal downtown. It's really romantic there.

uple: Karen Sells & John Bonnell st date: We went to see the movie "Just Cause" d then hung out in John's basement. We were th nervous, and we arrived at the movie about a lf hour before it started."
cest thing he has ever done: He let me show him y childhood home (twice) and he met all of my old chers, because he knew it was important to me.
cest thing she has ever done: She took me to the cus on my birthday because she knew I used to go hen I was little, as a tradition. s most attractive feature: His eyes and his freckles e great but his most attractive characteristic is his timism.
r most attractive feature: Her big brown eyes and r intelligence are the most attractive.
ost annoying part of relationship: Sometimes we k creativity in finding new, things to do.
ost romantic thing he has ever done: On our rd anniversary he took me to dinner at the Bubble om, a restaurant in Florida. He drove me out to ptiva Island and we walked on the beach and tched the sunset.
ost romantic thing she has ever done: Sometimes e takes me on picnics. We like to lie on our backs d look at the clouds.

Couple: Jen Hubertz & Scott Alvey
First date: I went to a Butler/Purdue basketball game with Scott and his brother. But our first eal date was when he took me out to dinner and gave me roses.
Nicest thing he has ever done: He came and ound me in the computer lab at midnight just so e could see me that day.
Nicest thing she has ever done: She brings me andy before my pharmacy clusters.
His most attractive feature: I think his curly hair nd his eyes tie for the most attractive feature.
Her most attractive feature:
Most annoying part of relationship: Honestly... There's nothing really annoying about us.

Couple: Rosanne Cull & Mike Ososki
First date: We went paddle-boating downtown and out to dinner. Then we rented a movie on the way home because we were having such a great time. It was a great first date.
Nicest thing he has ever done: He brought me roses before a pharmacy cluster to put her in a good mood while she was studying.
Nicest thing she has ever done: I like to do a lot of little things for him. Sometimes I'll surprise him with a cup of coffee when he studies or a note in his mailbox telling him how much he means to me.
His most attractive feature: It's usually his patience. He puts up with me. What can I say? I'm a handful.
Her most attractive feature: Her smile and her laugh.
Most annoying part of relationship: We are extremely moody!! But it never seems to be at the same time. Go figure.
Most romantic thing he has ever done: Mike took me to the symphony at Connor Prarie. He packed a picnic dinner, and we had a great time.

SENIOR WEEK

"Yeah, can I get at least three beers here?"
"Sure, how nice of you to get a couple for your friends."
"Friends?"

Whoops, how did that get in there?
Ok, so this wasn't taken during Senior Week. Heck, it wasn't even taken during second semester. Oh well. Good 'buds Andrew Jones and Robb Minich pose for a quick photo op. At least they're seniors.

Rebels

Cheerleader Revolution!

This year the cheerleaders fought back. They'd had it up to here and they weren't going to take it anymore. Thus, the Cheerleader Revolution began. The cheerleaders decided they were no longer going to cheer at Butler events because of a coaching decision that Butler made. The cheerleaders were not pleased with this decision, and theretore walked. However, the cheerleaders did attend many events before their strike. The Cheerleader Union also reached an agreement with Butler and cheerleaders were once again heard yelling at Butler sporting events.

Barry's Bad Dawgs
The cheerleaders stand in tront of the Barry's Bad Dawgs cheering section, disabling the first two rows of fans trom viewing the game.

"Kick that ball!"
Yell Butler cheerleaders at a Butler men's soccer game at Kuntz Stadium. (honestly, cheerleaders at a soccer game???)

Top Dawgs
(l to r) The IM Chairmen of Phi Kappa Psi display their Top Dawg Team trophy while standing with IM coordinators Kelly Nibel and her assistant Erin. The Top Dawg trophy is awarded to the fraternity or housing unit that wins the most events and thus earns the most points from every IM event throughout the year. The female award was awarded to the women of Alpha Chi Omega.

Here's the pitch
A member of the ResCo/Commuter IM softball team pitches during an IM softba games at the IM fields. IM IM IM.

Individual Top Dawg Scott Alvey of Phi Kappa Psi receives his award from Kelly Nibel during the Butler All-sports awards banquet. Alpha Phi Becky Callahan received the women's award.

"Another day, another dollar" think two women of Alpha Chi after participating in a Co-Rec basketball game.

Staying competitive & in shape with

Intramurals

Disclaimer: Squirrels are living creatures, too, and they have a right to be heard. I am also having delusions of grandeur and talking to someone (although no one else is here) from working on 100 pages of this yearbook alone. Yes, the schizophrenic warning signs are all present. "Hello . . . is this Charter . . . "

Disclaimer 2: Any names or faces used that resemble actual people are mere coincidences and in no way are meant to represent the opinions of people that might have the same name or faces as the fictitious ones used.

Plentiful Squirrels

Local squirrels voice their opinions on campus issues, life, and about being a squirrel in general.

Love the campus benches. Everywhere I go I can find one. There must be a million of them" commented Biz the Squirrel.

"Sometimes you have to accept the bad, but focus on the good. Sure, Butler is a small campus, but it has a lot to offer for everyone, even us squirrels. I think Jorge Luis Borges explained it best by saying 'Nothing is built on stone; all is built on sand, but we must build as if the sand were stone.' So go start building things with whatever sand you can find. I have a real furry tail." Fred the squirrel.

"Being a squirrel on Butler's campus isn't so bad, although sometimes I can't find a quiet place to sleep. I can climb up trees sideways, too." commented Squeeky Squirrel.

"Damn squirrels!" commented a local swan.

"Sometimes, when the squirrels aren't looking, I like to sneak up behind them and jump on for a ride, until they buck me off like a bull would to a cowboy. You're probably wondering how I practice for such an enthralling event, well that's where this here stuffed reindeer comes into the picture" explained a fictitious student that resembles 4th year pharmacy major, Rosanne Cull.

Big Willy Style Freshman Will Barnhart visits the Kappa house looking for a little Kappa Love, and instead gets an entire makeover. That's a good look for you, 'Willy'.

"Where's my drinking cup" asks sophomore Jenny Searles. If you don't know Jenny, we're not telling you.

U.B.D. (Unidentified Band Drummer) This band drummer went unidentified the entire year. So whoever you are & wherever you may be, remember to keep smiling & banging those drums (but lose the little feather thing on the hat).

Happy Pierre

Silly Pierre

Constipated Pierre

Angry Pierre

Covert Pierre

What's he doing?

We still haven't figured out what exactly Pierre is doing, but since we found these classic photos in this year's collection and didn't want them to go to waste, the Drift staff decided to make an emotional timeline, in dedication to senior Pierre Ruffin's hand sign "dance".

Nearing the end And Finally

Out of the . . .

Enjoying their last week
Seniors Kelli Hendrickson, Katherine Sloan, & John Messner live it up during Senior Week.

"Are you talking to me?"
Yearbook advisor David Clark tells his computer who's in charge.

Block Party
Meg Prunty (back right) talks to Karen Kolks about the upcoming school year during Block Party.

Slip n' slide
Junior Seth Cockrum slide, slide, slippety slides on the Teke front lawn.

Makin' his move.
Junior Jeremy Stutsman makes his move on an unsuspecting Maija Walters.

They can groove. Freshmen Heather Castle & Becky Butler show their moves on the dance platform.

Almost home. A member of Kappa Kappa Gamma travels across the Schwitzer lawn.

All alone. A member of the women's volleyball team stands alone, next to a trash can.

Sophomore Chad Stegemiller gives a tour of campus to future Butler freshmen.

Seniors

Mr. Butler Senior Cutler Armstrong proudly displays his "Mr. Butler" banner on the ResCo balcony.

"It smells so good!" says Scott Beier to Pat Broccolo of the wonderful smelling flower they both shared.

Not the Phi house! Although it looks exactly like the Alpha Phi house, it is definitely not a Senior house party in one of the rooms of the Alpha Phi house.

"Come here, baby!" says Josh Masariu to Emily Glatfelter while dancing atop the Indianapolis Indians' dugout. The dancing couple lost the competition to Seniors Sam Strohl & Kim Kutska.

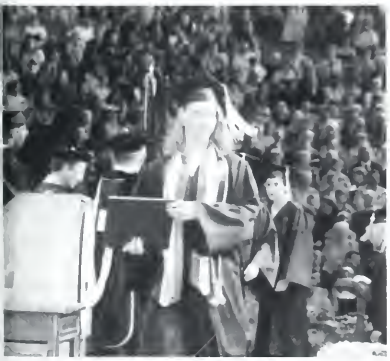
"And the winners are ..." Ambra Haake & Lori Klasing prepare to announce the winners of the Delta Gamma Anchor Splash.

Are all of those yours? A group of Lambda Chi seniors live it up at Victory Field during the second night of Senior Week.

"This shower is okay." says bathroom inspector Andy Dillingham during his inspection of the Alpha Phi bathrooms.

Senior Mike Pflugner finishes his walk across the stage during Commencement to officially become a graduate and an alumni.

"Hello...Hello...Hello!" Peter Bower, Billy Bradley, & Pat Broccolo imitate the Three Stooges as they head out of the West Gym in the direction of the main floor of Hinkle during Commencement.



"Finally, my diploma!" thinks a Butler graduate after 4 years of hard work at Butler.

Two female students sunbathe on a beautiful spring day on the immaculately manicured lawn located between the Residential College and the Atherton Student Union which, as we all know, is a very commonly filled with students occupying their time with fun and recreational activities including such sports as Ultimate Frisbee and ... um , well just Frisbee.

Anyone who isn't confused really doesn't understand the situation.

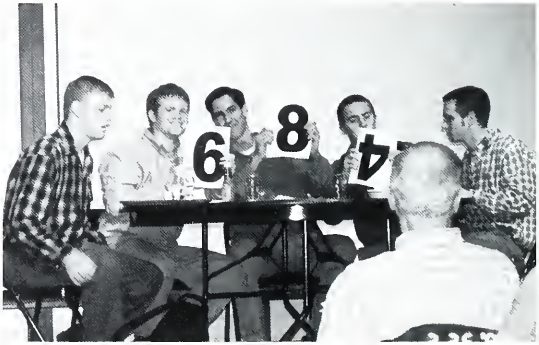
Underclassmen

"Hey, let's stand on the side of the road" says Junior Andrea McClain to Carolyn Redar.

Ohwhat, wow! She's the greatest dancer! Freshman Katie Kurtz performs her "Strike dance" during a Cosmic Bowling night out.

We be Clubbin'! Julie Howard & Brian Rock brave the possibility of food poisoning and eat food at the C-club.



Judgement Day! Phi Psi pledges rate the sorority pledge classes during Freshman Skits held in the Reilly Room.

Whiff! The ball is at the far right of the photo, yet Heather Clunie is still swinging at a non-existent ball. Looks like a whiff to the Drift staff.

Go protect and serve or something! Members of IPD take time out of their busy days to play cards and drink soda with students on the ResCo balcony. (I feel safe)

Hittin' the weights. Junior John Watkins works out with the new free weights in the Atherton Fitness Center.

"Hey, are those the tests answers for the final exam?" says the Butler guy standing behind two Butler girls.

Not Happy. Two Schwitzer ladies who were not very appreciative about having their picture taken scurry away after speaking protanities to the camera person.

Abstaining from parties, working all weekend, concentrating on nothing but getting out a stellar yearbook, we came to be called...

The Drift staff

Well, ok... so we drank all weekend, did nothing but party, and rarely if ever even remembered that 'yearbook thing'... only at the end of the year did a distressed David Clark (our administrative advisor) manage to instill some sense of urgency to our efforts. (That's not entirely true; Tara was a consistent photographer, and Chad never, ever let the Editors-in-chief forget that things weren't getting done -- foretelling tales of doom that almost equaled a certain person's -- we'll call him "Jeff" -- also never let us forget). All in all, however, this was the year of procrastination; and we were proud to take it to a new level. We were also proud that, despite the fact, this yearbook still sucks a whole helluva' lot less than last year's.

(left to right) Robb Minich, the mysterious Swamp Creature, and Chad Martin pretend to edit some copy that really they just held up to pretend like they were doing something. Immediately following the picture they brought the kegs back out, and the ladies of the evening came back into the room. Oh, then Missy and Tara and Roxy came back, too.

(Clockwise from top)Chad Martin, Tara Deters, and Roxy Kish pick out photos; Tara, Chad, Missy Yates, and Robb Minich after a long night of drinking (uh... just those of us that were 21.); Missy Yates thinks up some more captions that Martin and Minich will end up tossing anyhow; the entire group huddles around the Butler Bulldog.

...And so, like sands through the hourglass (uh.... what?), those were the days of our lives. Though the days of college ended with the year of 1999 for some, and were only the beginning of a college career for others, the experiences were the same for everyone: Ultimately, unforgettable. The task of creating a portrait that accurately captures the entirety of such a time is impossible, but with this in mind, the Drift has still strived to do as much as possible. There are many things that have changed on the small campus of Butler University even in the course of this year; for the seniors, the differences are even greater. The college experience is not what it used to be; but then again, th college experience in even five years will not be what it was for us. The currents of time swirl on with or without us; whether or not we choose to ride out the rapids lies in our own hands.

Dedicated to the Class of 1999.

The Beginning...
